THEME OF THE SEMINAR

In need of meeting financial demands particularly of the vulnerable and marginalized sections of the society is the prime objective of 'Financial Inclusion'. Financial Inclusion enables improved and better social development in an equitable manner across the country.

The attempt to expand access to financial inclusion is a continuous process. The Government as well as Reserve Bank of India through its financial wings have been implementing required measure to extend financial inclusion since independence.

An important landmark was the setting up of 'Rangarajan Committee' on Financial Inclusion. The report laid out a 'National Rural Financial Inclusion Plan.' Various Academic Bodies and Institutions conducted a series of Seminars/Conference and workshops towards promoting financial inclusion in achieving inclusive growth.

It is needless to mention that the weaken and marginalised sections of the society are to be helped and supported by the Government and non – government institution and bodies in all respect particularly in the financial field where they can get loans and financial assistance in such flexible mode based on which they can start their livelihood afresh. Thus, the main target of living and income for a large number of citizens in the country.
